Morgan Court Ends After Short Session

Ora Bolin's Son Held In Assault On Him May 10th

The May term of Morgan Circuit Court was concluded here Monday after a seven-day term.

The term was speeded when Earl Ray Perkins and Wesley Hibbens entered pleas of guilty in the fatal beating of Mrs. Rissie Steele Day at her country home near West Liberty, a case that was expected to consume several days.

Perkins pleaded guilty to murder and was given a life sentence Wednesday of last week by a jury of eight men and four women. Hibbens pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in the case and was sentenced to 21 years in prison by Judge W. Major Gardner.

Commonwealth Attorney Ralph N. Walter explained that after various conferences with the defendants and their attorneys and with members of the dead woman's family, agreement had been reached for Perkins to plead guilty to murder with a recommendation from the Commonwealth for the maximum sentence of 21 years in prison. Walter said he had agreed to amend Hibbens' indictment because he was convinced Hibbens did not premeditate his action but went to the Day home without knowing what Perkins planned and also because Hibbens had cooperated fully with officers and had cleared up several unknown facts in the case.

Perkins and Hibbens were taken to Lagrange this week by Sheriff James Brooks to commence serving their sentences.

The case of Herschel Blair, 25, of White Oak, indicted by the February grand jury as being an accessory before the facts in the murder and robbery of Mrs. Day, was continued to the October term on motion of defense attorney George Chad Perry of Paintsville.

Perry pointed out that the entire jury panel had heard the pleas of guilty entered by Perkins and Hibbens and the Commonwealth Attorney's statement of the case, and thus could not sit as an unbiased jurors in Blair's case. He cited a similar case that had been reversed by the Court of Appeals and Judge Gardner granted a continuance. Blair remains at liberty under bond to await trial in October.

RHONDA MCKENZIE FUND EXCEEDS ITS GOAL OF $10,000

Officers and board members of the Rhonda McKenzie Fund announced that the drive has topped its goal of $10,000.

A recent donation of $500 raised by the "Teens Who Care Club of East Hardin High School near Elizabethtown, Ky., upped the total donation to $10,339.74.

The drive was started last summer to assist the family of Little Rhonda McKenzie in meeting expenses incurred during a series of operations to correct the child's serious birth defects.

Little Rhonda has undergone seven successful operations thus far and is scheduled for another in November. The Fund Committee reports that to date, $6,291 has been spent to meet hospital bills and expenses.

The Fund's executive board and advisory board were to meet last night (Wednesday) to hear a full financial report and to decide how best to use the remaining funds. Since no additional financial assistance will be needed until Rhonda's eighth operation in November, a spokesman said plans are to deposit the remaining donated funds in a savings account to draw interest.

Special guests at the meeting last night were Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie and Rhonda. The Courier will continue as space permits to publish the names of donors to the fund until the last is exhausted.

Charles Lewis, Jr., and Gary Bishop guilty of breaking and entering the warehouse of Licking River Limestone Company last January and meted sentences of one year to each defendant. Their sentences were probation on condition that they make restitution for the property taken from the warehouse.

Grand Jury Indicts Bolin

The grand jury made its final report Monday, returning 21 indictments.

Among the indictments was on charging Denzil Bolin with armed assault upon his father, Ora Bolin, 69, with intent to rob.

The elder Bolin had been knocked in the head while watching television in his home on Lick Branch May 10. He was seriously wounded and taken to a Lexington hospital in a coma. He since has been removed to a convalescent home.

State Police and Sheriff Brooks investigated the case for several days.

Ford Defeats Combs In an Upset

BERT COMBS AND TOM EMBERTON WIN IN MORGAN

Total of 3,219 Go
To Polls, 375 Less
Than 4 Yrs. Ago

Voting was moderate in Morgan County Tuesday as citizens gave big majorities to former Gov. Bert T. Combs and Republican Tom Emberton for the Democratic and Republican nominations for Governor.

Morgan County Democrats rolled up a majority of 1,068 for former Gov. Combs over Lieut. Gov. Wendell Ford. The vote was—Combs 1,895, and Ford 827.

Emberton, 39-year-old former aide to Gov. Louie B. Nunn, polled 165 votes in Morgan for the Republican nomination over token opposition. Emberton had the backing of Nunn and the state administration, and the other candidates got less than a dozen votes among them—Martin T. Prather 1, and Hamlin 1.

A total of 3,219 votes were polled in Morgan county this year but only 3,022 of them voted in the two primaries for governor. This is 375 fewer than the 3,397 who voted in the 1967 governor's primaries, and 799 fewer than the 3,801 who voted in the 1963 primaries eight years ago.

Voting was brisk in most precincts but a long ballot slowed voting to a snail's pace this year.

Julian Carroll, the Combs running mate for Lieut. Governor carried Morgan over Attorney General John Breckenridge 1,233 to 559 for the Democratic nomination for Lieut. Governor. And James Host, the Emberton running mate, polled 152 votes to 6 for his two opponents.

Drexel Davis of Frankfort, whose parents live in Morgan, polled 780 votes in Morgan for the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer to 138 for L. L. Willis, his nearest opponent in a four-way race.

The Democrat ballot contained 44 names and the Republican 19. Many voters skipped the minor state offices, but most of them voted in the Senate and House contests.

Democrats had contests for all eight major state offices, for state Senator and Representative, Railroad Commissioner and Magistrate while Republicans had contests for five of the eight state offices. (Continued on page four)

STACY DEFEATS TURNER IN 27TH SENATE DISTRICT

State Senator Joe D. Stacy of West Liberty won Democratic renomination in the 27th district in Tuesday's primary election, defeating former Senator John Raymond Turner of Jackson, his nearest opponent, by 2,249 votes on the basis of returns from all but Republican Owensley county.

A dispute in Owensley county delayed the start of tabulations until late Wednesday. However, only about 100 Democrats votes were cast in that Republican county, according to reports at press time, not enough to materially affect outcome in the Democratic race.

Lawrence G. Hall of Salyersville won the Republican nomination for State Senator in the district, defeating Wil-

WOODY MAY WINS OVER BROWN FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Woodford F. "Woody" May of Woodsbend, Morgan county, posed out Sandy Hook businessman Ray O. Brown by 35 votes for the Democratic nomination for State Representative in the new Morgan Elliott-Rowan district.

Brown took Elliott and Rowan counties with a majority of 1270 but May rolled up an even bigger majority in his home county of Morgan—1,305.

Vote by counties, including the absentees, follows:

	May	Brown
Morgan	1,924	619
Elliott	576	1,233
Rowan	1,305	1,313
TOTALS	3,230	3,195

May previously had served a term as State Representative when the district was composed of Morgan Elliott-Rowan counties.

NUNN'S MAN IS EASY WINNER IN G. O. P.'S PRIMARY

Riding a wave of majorities in the cities, Lieut. Gov. Wendell Ford achieved a surprising, decisive victory over former Gov. Bert Combs for governor in Kentucky's Democrat primary Tuesday and will face Republican Tom Emberton in November.

With all but 46 of the state's 3,076 precincts counted, Ford had piled up a majority of over 41,000 Wednesday afternoon. The vote was Ford 193,601 and Combs 151,784.

"The party's going to get together and we're going to win the statehouse," the 46-year-old Owensboro insurance man said after Combs conceded.

Combs conceded at 9:30 Tuesday night when one-third of the states precincts showed his former administrative aide had gained a 14,000 vote lead, most of them from the heavily populated areas along the Ohio river, including big majorities in Covington, Newport, Louisville, and Owensboro.

"It has been a hard campaign; but I have no regrets," Combs said. And he added, "I want to congratulate Wendell. We need to go forward with the party; I'm going to do what I can for the state." But it is the end of the road for me politically," he added.

With the state administration now in the hands of Republicans for the first time in 20 years, Gov. Nunn had no trouble in having the party nominate Tom Emberton, his former administrative aide, for the G.O.P. nomination for governor.

Emberton, 39, had only token opposition and widespread support from the Nunn forces, thus was an easy winner in a four-man race. Emberton's running mate will be James Host, 32, former park commissioner from Ashland, who also was backed by Nunn.

Julian Carroll, Combs' running-mate for Lt. Governor, will be Ford's running mate in November. Carroll, former Speaker of the House, was running ahead of Atty. General John Grecklenridge by over 13,000 votes with nearly all the precincts tabulated.

Ford swept five of the seven congressional districts. Combs won the two mountain districts—the 5th and the 7th.

Also running in November will be former A. B. Chandler, an Independent, and W. E. Smith for the American Party. Chandler said Wednesday, "I intend to be running in November, and I'll get a lot of Republican votes."

Ford was jubilant about his organizational strength in Louisville which he carried by 17,000, and in northern Kentucky. Other apparent winners for state offices in the Democrat primary are:

Attorney General — A. M. Wilhoit
Treasurer — Drexell Davis
Commissioner of Agriculture — Wendell Butler
Clerk of Court of Appeals — Frances Jones Mills
Auditor — Mary Louise Foust
Superintendent — Lyman V. Ginger.

Republicans have nominated a full slate of candidates to oppose the Democrats this year.

HOLBROOK WINS FOR MAGISTRATE

Incumbent William G. Holbrook of West Liberty won the Democratic nomination for re-election as Magistrate in District No. 1 in a 14-vote margin over Roger Pelfrey of War Creek.

The vote by precincts:

	Holbrook	Pelfrey
Ward 1	180	144
Ward 2	139	82
Lacy Ck. 4	42	120
Absentees	3	4
TOTALS	364	350

The Democratic nomination is equal to election since no Republican filed for that party's nomination.

The voting was to fill out the unexpired term of the late J. F. Turner. Holbrook was serving by appointment until the election this year.

MORGAN JR. HIGH TEAM, COACHES AND CHEERLEADERS ARE HONORED

Families of the Morgan County Junior High Basketball Team met at the Pleasant Valley Country Club last Wednesday evening, May 12, for a potluck supper to honor the team and managers, cheerleaders, and Coach Lynn Nickell.

Guests of honor, along with their wives, were Gene Cain and Kenny Collinsworth, who helped Coach Nickell during the season. Cheerleader sponsors Mrs. Glenda Vest and Mrs. Barbara Motley, were unable to attend.

The room was decorated in the junior high colors, red and white, and miniature basketball player figures with the number "44" (Dan Isel's number) were favors for team members.

Rev. Darrell Effe gave the blessing and later in the evening, Ralph Walter acknowledged the parents present. He then introduced Hank Allen, junior high team member, who presented comments from the team in appreciation to Coach Nickell for "coming out of retirement" to take charge of the team. Also, appreciation was expressed to Mr. Cain and Mr. Collinsworth for their willingness to assist with the coaching.

Allen then presented a pewter tray to Coach and Mrs. Nickell as a gift from the team. Coach Nickell, in a brief statement, then complimented the team for their fine attitude and effort during their successful season. He also complimented his assistants, the cheerleaders, and the parents for their support and cooperation during the season.

OBITUARY LINDON

The night of December 11, 1950, a third child came to bless the home of Raymond and Girdon Cravens Lindon of Adele, to whom they gave the name Ronnie Lee. He departed this life on April 13, 1971.

Ronnie grew up at home under the care of a hard working father and a faithful mother, and in the happy company of his brothers and sisters. He attended Cannel City Grade school, Hazel Green Academy and Morgan County High School. Along with his family he early in life attended Sunday School and church at Adele, where he was taught the love of Jesus Christ.

On February 23, 1968, Ronnie and Rita Laverne Eallen of Cannel City were joined in marriage. They had the joy of becoming the parents of two daughters, Leah Michelle and Rhonda Shane.

Prior to his death he was involved in working with his father and older brother in the logging business.

Today, we as relatives and friends, extend our sympathy to his survivors:

His wife, Laverne; his daughters, Leah Michelle and Rhonda Shane; His parents, Ray and Girdon Lindon; His sisters, Mrs. Georgia Estes of Wilmington, Ohio and Lisha at home; his brothers, Vernon of Cannel City and Mike, Rod, Rick and Terry at home; his maternal grandmother, Cora Bailey; his paternal grandmother, Minnie Lou Lindon; one niece, Heather, and one nephew, Chuck.

Along with his family and all his other relatives, his many friends in the home community and elsewhere, will greatly miss Ronnie, and long cherish his memory. His life — though brief — will be forever meaningful to each of us.

AFTER 10 CONVENTIONS, KENTUCKY ADMITTED AS STATE JUNE 1, 1792

It was a long, hard struggle, but we finally made it on June 1, 1792, and Kentucky became the fifteenth of the young United States of America.

It took 10 conventions, beginning with the first at Danville in 1784, to wrap up the formal admission. As the Virginia historical, Mann Butler, has recorded:

"Nor can there in the whole history of American Government be found a career of such multiplied disappointments and abortive assemblies as the labors of Kentucky to be admitted into the Union."

The first convention had to concern itself with repelling Indian attacks but through that and all the other pre-statehood conventions, Kentuckians demonstrated deep regard for established law and did not take the available short cuts to independence from Virginia.

Virginia, incidentally, was far less than pleased about giving up her "Western territory" but the Kentuckians persisted in their petitions to the Virginia Legislature rejecting various extra-legal courses which they might have taken.

James Monroe did not believe Kentucky needed a separate government until he visited here in 1785. Thomas Jefferson opposed our statehood, contending Virginia had been liberal to give us representation in her Legislature in 1776 and saying that separation would diminish Virginia's prestige. This latter view proved correct.

It should be remembered that in our early days, the Virginia capitals — first Williamsburg and then Richmond — were many days distant from the Kentucky settlements. Kentuckians even had to forego court appeals because they could not travel that far to make them. And further, Virginia politicians to the east were passing laws which had little applicability and drew little approval in Kentucky. Worst of all, Virginians were becoming obnoxious especially since Kentuckians were the ones holding the territory against the Indians with little help from Virginia. At the third convention in 1785 General James Wilkinson aroused the delegates with his assertion that there was no difference between Great Britain's colonial taxes and those being imposed by Virginia.

Wilkinson later shipped his tobacco down the Mississippi, selling it to the Spanish in New Orleans for $9.50 a hundred pounds compared with the Kentucky price of $2.50.

Returning to Kentucky by sea via Philadelphia, Wilkinson showed up in Lexington with a coach and four, a store of merchandise and a coffer of slaves. He had concocted a deal with the Spanish by which they would annex Kentucky and he would have the privilege of engaging in trade, duty free, between Kentucky and New Orleans.

With all the maneuverings, a poem in the Kentucky Gazette said the plots being devised for the Danville conventions "were forged in hades under the supervision of his Satanic Majesty."

John Brown, exposed the Spanish conspiracy in the seventh convention and Virginia, determined to keep Kentucky out of Spanish hands, moved along with steps to permit statehood. George Washington favored statehood, Congress approved and finally at a tenth convention in April, 1792, all was clear for formal admission to the Union on June 1 of that year. Vermont was ahead after the first thirteen so Kentucky became the fifteenth state leaving the sixteenth Union membership to Tennessee on June 1, 1796.

From her admittance to the family of American states to this coming birthday June 1 Kentucky has been a rich and colorful fabric of courage, determination and steady progress to achieve goals expressed in our federal constitution; to "promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

OBSERVATIONS • AND • PREDICTIONS

WHITE LIQUOR — One of Kentucky's biggest distilleries, Brown - Foreman Distillers Corp. of Louisville seems to be going all out for light dry (white) liquor. Brown - Foreman recently announced it was introducing a new white liquor "3/20 Frost" at a cost of $8 million. And this week, Brown-Foreman has agreed to purchase the Canadian whiskey business of Barton Brands Inc. for $34 million. Barton Brands produces Canadian Mist whiskey, described as the leading light (white) whiskey import. Brown-Foreman, founded from a nationwide survey that lady drinkers like a light dry liquor, thus their new Kentucky brand "3/20 Frost". Will other Kentucky distilleries follow the lead or will they continue to push Kentucky Bourbon?

AD INDUSTRY SAGS — Current ad spending budgets were prepared late last year by the big corporations, and they cut them considerably due to the recession and gloomy economic news. As a result, advertising industry unemployment is the worst in history, says the Wall Street Journal. Many top ad men are walking the streets or in other businesses. One big ad agency that handles national contracts for television and big dailies formerly operated with 10 employees back to 5 per million. And loss of billings, but now has back to 5 spend million. And the firm now is in the process of reducing its force to 4 per million, says the Journal.

PERSONALITY FIGHT — James Host, Gov. Nunn's victor for the Republican nomination for Lieut. Governor, appeared on a Lexington television station a few minutes after the TV showed Combs conceding defeat to Ford Tuesday night. Asked what he thought happened in the upset victory of Ford over Combs, the Ashland-born Host said, "The Democratic primary finally developed into a personality affair between Ford and Combs, and this may have turned the people off." He said the Republicans would present policies in the coming contest, and would avoid personalities.

Since the first Heart Fund Campaign was conducted nationally in 1949, there has been a decline of about 20 percent in the death rate from heart and blood vessel diseases applying to persons below age 65.

REAL AMERICAN
One reason the Indians saw so much beauty in early America was that they didn't use billboards in their sign language —Wall Street Journal.

Seat belts do save lives, but only if they are worn, reminds Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. "Buckle up for safety" is not just a slogan, it's a way of life—a way of saving lives.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By Thos. B. Thompson
District Manager
Social Security Administration

It's not every day that I get to talk with a 100-year-old beneficiary — there aren't that many around. So it was a treat and a pleasure to visit with Mr. Henry C. Flint, who resides with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Flint at 406 — 35th Street, Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

"What is the earliest thing you remember?", I asked this spry and alert centenarian who was born in Magoffin County on February 2, 1871.

"A fellow cursing his horse because it reared as he rode by my father's house when I was about 5 or 6 years old", he replied with a twinkle in his eye.

"What was the most exciting event in your life?", I asked. "Watching soldiers in uniform drilling on horses", he recalled.

"What was your first job?", I next inquired.

"Hoing corn for a fellow for 50¢ a day", he replied. Later, he explained, he went to work at age 16 in his dad's blacksmith shop. The father subsequently turned the shop over to Mr. Flint and another son, and there he worked until he shoed his last horse at age 72.

"What did you think when you first heard about the social security program?", I wanted to know.

"That it was a good thing, and that I would probably get it some day", was Mr. Flint's reply.

"How is your health now?", I inquired.

"Good — I guess — I eat like a working man, and sleep like one too", said Mr. Flint.

And then — the question we all get around to sooner or later when talking with one of Mr. Flint's age — "why do you think that you have been able to live so long?"

"Working hard, being a Christian, and treating everybody right", was the quick reply.

Mr. Flint, who raised 5 children, has 9 living grandchildren, and an unknown number of great grandchildren. He achieved his only unmet ambition on February 2, when he celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary.

Testifying to his good health is the fact that he takes a walk every pretty day, and still goes to church once or twice a month. He was able to read his Bible until 2 or 3 years ago, but even more startling, perhaps, is the fact that he was able to shave himself with a straight razor until one year ago!

Mr. Flint worked many years as a self-employed blacksmith in his native Magoffin County. He did so, however, without the benefit of social security coverage, because self-employed people were not brought under the program until 1951. Thus it is that he filed and qualified for a special age 72 benefit payable to those not eligible for regular social security benefits. These payments are intended to assure some regular income for older people who had little or no opportunity to earn social security protection during their working years.

Not so the son with whom he makes his home. Completing 20 years of service with Ashland Oil this past December, William has since attained retirement age and applied for regular, age 65 retirement benefits.

Social security records are confidential, and cannot be publicized without the written consent of the party involved. Both Henry and William Flint gave that consent in the interest of better informing others of their rights under the program.

TREASURE HUNTER
IN WOLFE COUNTY

(The Wolfe County News)
C. F. Ahrendt, Dayton, Ohio, treasure hunter and electronic metal detector, and his son, Kurt, spent Saturday in Wolfe County.

Mr. Ahrendt and son have been in this area on different occasions, listening to stories concerning buried and hidden treasure, and checking out leads. Saturday, they visited with Mr. Dale Pence, who took them to strange and mysterious areas on the Pence farm. They also visited the Taylor Booths. Mr. Ahrendt brought with him several of his success at recovering lost articles, including around 90 class rings, all of which contained beautiful stones of rich and varied colors, and around 100 wedding bands, all different, and many with exquisite engravings. Inscribed in one was the date 1887 and the name "Effie Houston." Dates on the class rings ranged from 1928 to recent years. Mr. Ahrendt said he had recovered more than 1,000 friendship rings. He searches on beaches, lakes pools, rivers, and does scuba diving. He has also been successful in recovering coins, and said he has found 25 times as many coins as rings. He also searches and probes for buried or hidden treasure and a percentage is given on productive leads.

Writing is also one of Mrs. Engle's hobbies and she has written a number of songs and poems. She likes to read and watch T.V. and keep up with world events. She has seen many changes in her life-time, and she often speaks of her childhood home. The following is her poem.

HOME PLACE

BY MARY A. ENGLE

I went to the old home place To see my dear mother. It was there Where I was born and raised, And while I was there The Lord came and took her To dwell in that city So beautiful and fair.

My father and my brother Had gone on before her To dwell in that city That is made four-square, And I know it won't be long Till I will be with them And we will all be together In that city so fair.

I have other loved ones Who have gone on to glory, And we will meet and have A grand reunion up there Where we will ever be around The throne of our dear Savior.

In that beautiful city four-square, The Bible speaks of that beautiful city And the beauty and glory At await us up there, It tells of the joy We will all have in heaven In that beautiful city four-square.

The Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, Olive Hill, Kentucky, which serves poor people in Lewis, Greenup, Carter, Rowan, Elliott, and Morgan Counties in Kentucky is one of 34 grantees in Region IV of the Office of Economic Opportunity selected to receive an incentive grant.

Regional grantees were offered the opportunity to enter competition for incentive grant funds. 223 Proposals were received, which were rated by a Regional Review Committee responsible for making the selections.

Roy E. Batchelor, OEO Director for Region IV, Atlanta, which serves the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee, announced this 12 month grant totaling $57,324 will be used for economic development.

This program includes the following two projects:

(1) Transfer a current training program in upholstery to an economic development project. (2) Provide two clearing houses for craft items.

Grant funds will be used to assist the upholstery factory in becoming a self-sustaining, project-making enterprise within one year. The craft operation will provide income to individual community club members. This craft project will be totally owned by eighteen (18) community clubs organized into a holding company which acts as an umbrella organization for current economic development projects.

According to Mr. Batchelor, these grants were awarded to those communities and organizations which showed initiative, ingenuity and imagination to meet human needs and to find new ways of helping people out of poverty. He added, "this project does not replace or duplicate existing activities of grantees providing services. Agencies are required to maintain present levels of effort during the period of these special incentive grants."

Mr. Eugene Binion is Executive Director.

HILL TOWN HAS 50 MILLIONAIRES; NOT ALL HILLBILLIES ARE PAUPERS

Many Live The Good Life Due To Quick Profits In Mining

PIKEVILLE, Ky. — Forget the folklore that everyone in Appalachia is a poor, barefoot mountaineer.

This town of 4,700 is a pocket of wealth and riches, resting inconspicuously in the heart of one of the nation's poorest regions.

Consider, for example, a population that local bankers say has more than 50 millionaires and claims 25 doctors, 35 lawyers, a Cadillac dealership with a waiting list and a $7 million hospital under construction.

Add to that description 20 swimming pools, three banks with deposits totaling more than $100 million and the likelihood that a beginning doctor can earn $35,000-$50,000 his first year of practice and you've got a more accurate picture of this coal town near the Eastern Kentucky border.

These are the "good-livers," as they are called here who live much the same — or better — than their counterparts in the traditionally wealthy suburbs of the U. S.

They don't mind being called hillbillies, but are disturbed by the picture that name presents.

"Our image is a real problem. Everyone thinks that everyone here lives in a log cabin in some hollow," said attorney Henry D. Stratton, who lives in a new $100,000 home.

"It hurts us economically. No industry wants to move into a place that sounds like that. . . some insurance companies won't even insure anything here," he added.

Who has the money and where does it come from? "The coal people and everyone they do business with the doctors, the lawyers, the merchants, everyone," said Walter Walters as he turned his new Lincoln Continental into the Bowles Addition, Pikeville's classiest subdivision.

Passing homes ranging in value from $35,000 to $200,000, he observed, "When the coal business is good everyone's business is good. It spreads out all over town."

Last year was a good year for coal. The assets of Pikeville National Bank & Trust, for example, grew more than

"It would be easier for both of us, but we like it here. Besides, she added, Pikeville has a lot to offer, including a four-year college, a concert series, good business opportunities, fine stores and a bevy of civic clubs.

"If someone asks me where I'm from, I'm proud to say, 'Oh, I'm just an old Kentucky hillbilly,'" she says.

Wall Street Journal Ups Its Subscription Price Due To Postage

The Wall Street Journal, six-day-a-week daily covering business news, announced last week it would increase its subscription price by $3 effective soon.

Second class postage rates were increased an average of 23% on May 16 by the new post office corporation

KENTUCKY DRAFT BOARDS WILL CUT BACK SERVICES

FRANKFORT, Ky. — On May 28 many Kentucky Selective Service boards will be reduced from full-time to part-time and there will be further reduction in hours for boards now operating part-time.

The step is a result of the President's policy of achieving an all-volunteer armed force and a winding-down of the Vietnam hostilities, according to Col. Taylor L. Davidson, Kentucky Selective Service director.

Col Davidson said that under this situation many dedicated Selective Service employees have had to make the hard decision whether to take a reduction in hours, try to find employment in other governmental agencies or private industry, or retire from federal service.

The Selective Service chief said, "We regret that after May 28 many good employees will no longer be working with us."

QUICKSAND, KY. — Speaking before a joint meeting of the Quicksand Area Extension County Agents and Home Economics Agents Associations here Friday, May 21, Congressman Carl Perkins stated he believed in the Extension Service as it now exists and functions and would do everything in his power to protect it.

"Extension is woven into the entire fabric of modern Kentucky," he said, "and we would be living in a far poorer Kentucky today without it."

Briefing the Quicksand Area Extension workers on the proposed Revenue Sharing bill now pending in Congress, Perkins said, as it now stands, the bill will abandon the Cooperative Extension Service as a categorical item in the Federal budget. This means, he said in effect, that the states will still get money from the Federal Government for carrying on Extension work. The amount would be equal to that received in 1970-71, with provisions for increases in future years.

He said, however, that virtually everyone opposes this part of the bill, stating that any substantial reduction in the agricultural programs conducted by the Extension Service could endanger the capacity of the United States to produce food and maintain quality and safety of food products for an increasing population.

Basically, as Congressman Perkins explained it, Revenue Sharing as President Nixon proposed it last January, will par-

OVER 600 TOUR WOODSBEND BOYS CAMP AT OPEN HOUSE LAST SUNDAY

Child Welfare Com. George Perkins Was Among Many Guests

Woodsbend Boys Camp entertained an enthusiastic crowd of visitors at open house activities at the camp Sunday afternoon. Over 600 people passed through the facility during the warm, sunny afternoon. Residents of the institution served as tour guides and responded to the visitors' many questions about the camp program.

Dr. George Perkins, Commissioner of the Kentucky Child Welfare Department, dedicated the camp's new building by unlocking the front door with an inscribed golden key. Superintendent Jack Lewis then presented the key as a gift to Evans Tracy, Director of Residential Services, for his role in construction of the building and support given in the establishment of the present treatment program for juvenile boys.

The new building replaces one destroyed two years ago by fire. Woodsbend is the model institution for the treatment of delinquent boys in Kentucky. Its program is termed by experts in the field as one of the best in the nation and the camp hosts numerous visitors each month from other states who come to study

He plans to fly to Washington, D. C. on May 30 to tour the capitol building with a group of seniors and two teachers who plan to go with them. We wish them both the best of luck in their future years of life.

Mrs. Nora Carpenter and son, Luther Green, of Saylorsville stopped to have a chat with me and my wife Myrtle, one day this week. They own a farm in the branch near the Holliday school house and they were looking the farm over. She was interested in leasing her land to United Fuel Company who is taking leases in this section. She said my cousin Alex Holliday, who lives in her section, is doing very well for his age and is staying now with his son, Luther Holliday, of Campton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Holliday made a business trip to West Liberty on Friday of this week.

Mrs. Victoria Adams of Pompano Beach, Fla. attended a trip to Ohio this week to visit the grave of their father J. W. Jones, who used to live in this section before he moved to Ohio and died.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. Boyd, the mother of Millard Boyd, fell and broke her hip while visiting some business place near her home. We wish her a speedy recovery and hope she can visit this section soon.

All officers were present except Mrs. Tutt.

During a short business meeting, led by Board Chairman, Mr. James Stewart, which was a combination meeting of CWF and church, it was voted to continue Sunday School, at least through June and try to hold it up. It has been 25 long years since he left us and went on to reap his reward. Oh, Daddy, we miss you so much. Daddy, at the time God called you I could not understand why you had to leave us. But now I know it was God's will to take you. So now, Daddy, your working days are over, but your love and kind words are still with us. You are sadly missed by all.

Your wife, Prudie and children Mabel, Mizzie, Eva and Ivory.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE

SENIORS of MORGAN COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

We are honored to present these members of the 1970 graduating class of Morgan County High School. To the seniors and to their parents, who have worked hard to make this forthcoming moment of graduation possible, we say congratulations for a job well done. It is a time to set higher goals. To each graduate, let us urge you to continue your education in a university or college or in a field of specialized training. Your days at MCHS must be but a stepping stone to higher attainment. Set your sights. Choose carefully. Then seek your goal with determination, always remembering to maintain your high principles; for victories won at the sacrifice of principle are but hollow ones. Above all, continue to thank God for his help each step of the way as you realize your goals.
